

jobWings Launch Nicejob.ca, the english version of Beljob.ca

MONTREAL, June 5, 2003.

Four months after launching Beljob.ca, jobWings lauched today Nicejob.ca, the english version (counterpart ?) of this Internet job offers search engine.

The success of this search engine tracking the latest available positions from company career sections on the Web have not been long with candidates. Three thousand of them are coming everyday to consult the latest indexed jobs.

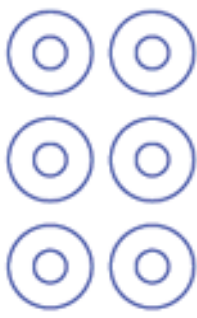

« In regards of our available resources to launch Beljob.ca in Quebec, reaching almost 80000 visitors in may, at the forth month of activity is a good indicator of what to expect in the near futur » said Manuel Francisci, president of jobWings.

For recruiters, Nicejob.ca brings interested candidates directly to the career sections of company Web sites.

For companies that are not equipped to handle job posting on their company Web sites, Nicejob.ca provides a free and easy solution. This solution allows any SME, even the smallest ones, to use their own Internet web site as a recruiting tool.

About jobWings

Founded in February 2001, in a matter of months, jobWings.com established itself as the Internet reference for employment opportunities in the fields of finance, accounting and management, for intermediate to senior level positions. In March 2002, La Toile des Recruteurs, a Web site catering to Human Resource professionals, was launched, featuring news and information, practical tips and HR employment offers. For his secondary anniversary, jobWings launched Beljob.ca, a powerful search engine, tracking the latest available positions from company career sections on the Web.

Information: Manuel Francisci, jobWings.com careers Inc., info@jobs.ca

www.beljob.ca

www.nicejob.ca