

"jobWings.com: Giving access to Quebec's hidden financial and accounting skill market"

Montréal, February 1 /CNW/ - Today, the talent brokers at Venatus Conseil officially launched jobWings.com. A website completely dedicated to mediatization of career opportunities in finance and accounting.

Venatus Conseil also revealed, as part of the jobWings.com launch, newly offered services such as providing more job postings on a specialized site, market intelligence, and contextualized market research for employers of potential candidates.

"By intermediating specialized senior management search services, Venatus Conseil has developed a special connection at the heart of Quebec's professional finance and accounting network. Most of the site visitors know us personally from having met or corresponded with us on many occasions," states Nathalie Francisci, president of Venatus Conseil. "This is a new step that is part of our strategy to maintain the quality of our public image with candidates and to increase our geographic reach to other francophone countries."

Contrary to the majority of job sites, jobWings.com—managed by jobWings Careers Inc—does not archive CVs and therefore does not offer a bank of them to employers. "The dynamics of the financial and accounting skill market ensure that professionals of the highest calibre—already heavily solicited—are very reluctant to submit their CVs on job sites and are very selective when opportunities present themselves. "Creating a quality CV bank simply by inviting these sought-after professionals to fill out a few pages of online forms might be a utopian idea to think about." explains Nathalie Francisci.

On the other hand, Venatus Conseil has a private database of contacts—updated daily—developed over more than five years from successful mandates in accounting and finance. Only talent brokers of Venatus Conseil—who have personally contacted and/or met each indexed contact personally—have access to it.

This private contact database—the most exhaustive and detailed in Québec—gives the talent brokers clarity in their market intelligence mandates, in term of profiles, and especially in terms of each contact's professional expectations.

The site offers the following advantages:

- A posting service for career opportunities that lets businesses reach a very specific and highly desired pool of candidates.
- Currency indicators on the salaries of Quebec senior staff in finance and accounting for different categories of employers.
- A career management and personal marketing section where talent brokers give advice and a friendly account of recruitment anecdotes.
- Foolproof confidentiality requiring no personal information from candidates to consult and apply for job offers.
- Email notifications when a job offer corresponding to candidate aspirations is posted.
- Complete access from the welcoming page to the list of available positions.

About Venatus Conseil

Venatus Conseil Lte is a human resource service provider who specializes in executive and professional searches for large to medium-sized business and offers recruitment strategy consultations.

Venatus Conseil has a web site at the address: <http://www.venatus.com>.

Contact details: Manuel Francisci, Les Carrières jobWings.com inc., info@jobs.ca